PREMIUM • Rogério Fernandes Ferreira: “There is no serious basis for ending gold visas, now”

Filipe Alves 09 October 2020, 13:30

Former Secretary of State for Tax Affairs considers that there is no scope for an increase in the tax burden on families, in OE2021, but admits that the Government launches new “fees and taxes”.

What do you expect from the 2021 State Budget proposal?

Everything indicates that the Government does not intend to promote structural or substantial changes in the fiscal aspect, despite the fact that the approval of the same is expected with the votes of “contraption”, and it is doing well. The country would hardly endure, in the midst of a recession like this, further worsening of the tax burden. On the contrary, some tax relief is expected for companies, in general, in matters of, for example, autonomous taxation or in the event of losses, which goes in the right direction and which will be to help companies maintain jobs . This aim is also to be achieved with the extension of special measures to extend the time of the lay-off, with direct support from social security, through extra-fiscal and public expenditure.
